Baseball

The latest word from the coast, is that Manager Chandler has secured a likely bunch of players for the Red Deer team.

There will be an automobile parade by the Automobile Club and big doings generally at the opening game.

A meeting to organize an Amateur Baseball League in the town was held Friday evening last. Four clubs will comprise the league, namely: Bankers, High School, Real Estate and Young Men's Club. The officers are: President, R. E. Chadsey; Vice President, W. E. Chadsey; Secretary, T. H. McLachlin. Committee on constitution, H. Wallace, R. Pearson, J. LaFrance, H. White.

Man Dies at Police Station

The death took place at the Police Station, early yesterday morning, of Thomas Lester. The deceased gave himself up to the Chief of Police on Sunday and said that he had killed his sister. He was taken to the police station, but his statement was found to be untrue. Dr. George was called and he was found to be suffering from delirium tremens. On Monday night he became worse and took pneumonia. Drs. George and Colborn attended him and arrangements were made to have him removed to the hospital, but he expired early in the morning. Deceased was a tall, well built man, well known in the town, and formerly in the employ of the Great West Lumber Co. It is said he is well connected in Winnipeg.

Marriage at Rocky Mountain House

The marriage took place at the residence of Mrs. C. L. Haworth, two miles northwest of Rocky Mountain House on Wednesday, April 10th, of two of the popular young people of this district in the persons of Eva May, eldest daughter of Mrs. C. L. Haworth, and Geo. T. Thomson, editor of the Rocky Mountain House Echo, Rev. Mr. Heaven performing the ceremony. The wedding was quiet, there only being the immediate relatives of the contracting parties present. This wedding is unique in its way as it is the first wedding in the Rocky Mountain House settlement. The news extends congratulations to friend Thomson and his bride, wishing them long life and prolonged happiness.

Fatal Accident at A.C.R. Bridge

A serious accident, in which one man was killed and another was seriously injured, took place at the A.C.R. bridge, west of Red Deer, yesterday afternoon. While working on the temporary trestle across the river, one of the trestles gave way and two men were injured, one of them dying on the road into the hospital. The other man, named Austin Aunn, was taken to the hospital, where he lies with serious, but not fatal, injuries to the back. The man who was killed was unknown, having only started work yesterday morning, and up to the time of going to press his name had not been discovered.

RED DEER LEADS.

Red Deer seems to be about as lively a town as there is in Alberta. Not only has she a ball team that would be a credit to many a large city in considerably higher class ball than is played here, but she now has an automobile club with a membership of fifty auto owners. They are planning an active season, which is an example of the Edmonton automobile club might well follow.

C.N.R. Will Likely Expropriate

Moore Estate, Desire to Sell to Town

A meeting of the Board of Trade and Council was held yesterday morning to take into consideration an offer from W. A. Moore to sell to the town the Moore property north of the river for industrial sites. They said they had failed to come to an amicable arrangement with the C.N.R. with regard to trackage property and they were willing to dispose of the land to the town for considerably less than it was assessed at.

Consideration was given to the proposition by the meeting, but it was considered too big a thing to handle off hand in this kind of manner. It will be dealt with later on. It is to be regretted that grave questions of this kind are rushed through as though there was no one to consider but a few people, and the time is coming when cities at large will have to be considered in large transactions involving great sums of money. To railroad through a proposition of this kind without giving the people and the press the fullest scope for discussion, would be an outrage.

It is now understood that the C.N.R. will take expropriation proceedings, which will allow them to start building their line into town at once.

Additional Trackage

The extra trackage in the C.P.R. yards will be much more extensive than at first thought of. There will be nine new tracks laid the whole length of the yards, two on the east side running up to the new freight sheds, and seven on the west side of the present tracks, making the capacity of the yards three times as great as formerly. This work will not be done for some time as men and material are not available at present.

"Be British!" Is Cry of Captain to Crew

New York, April 19.—"From the bridge of the Titanic Captain Smith called through his megaphone, 'Be British,' and that became the rallying cry of the officers and crew," says John Johnson, a member of the crew.

Johnson said a cook tried to pull the captain into a lifeboat, but Smith said, "No, no; I must go down with her."

He then mounted the bridge and stood watching the loading of the boats.

The Order of Owls

The Order of Owls held their first meeting and entertainment in the Oddfellows' Hall on Tuesday evening, the 18th inst. Those present before going on with the business of the meeting, unanimously passed a vote of condolence with the relatives and those drowned in the wreck of the Titanic. A short entertainment followed, consisting of songs, duets and musical recitations. The gentlemen taking part were Messrs. Campbell, Kent, York and Jackson. It is to be hoped that we shall hear more of Mr. Jackson's musical recitations in the future. After the entertainment the organizers present, Messrs. Jarvis & Hale, gave an account of the order and then gave the obligation to the members present. Bro. McNasrell was elected president, and the following were elected to office pro tem: Messrs. Rowell, Yorkton, Jackson, Arnold, Wright & McLaughlin. T. H. Davis was elected Secretary. It was unanimously decided to keep the charter open till the next meeting, which will be held in the Oddfellows' Hall on Thursday, May 2nd. This means that the fee till that time will only be $5.00. Applications for membership may be sent to A. R. Jarvis, Organizer, or to T. H. Davis, Bx 169, Red Deer.

Obituary Notices

Noreissa A. Schuler, a resident of Blackfalds, died of pneumonia on April 21st, aged 76 years. Her husband died some time ago. The body was taken to Crawfordville, Indiana, for burial.

James Hill, a young Englishman, only a short time in the country, aged 23, died at the hospital on Saturday, the 20th inst., of appendicitis. His case was a bad one, and there was little hope for him from the first. He was an employee of the Cement Builders, Limited, and had a brother-in-law in Calgary. The funeral took place Monday to St. Luke's church, where Rev. C. W. G. Moore conducted service, after which interment took place in the cemetery.

Automobile Club

An Automobile Club was organized Monday evening in the office of The Cunningham Land Company. There was a splendid attendance of motorists present and considerable interest was taken in the scheme. The following officers were elected: Hon. President—E. Michener. President—R. B. Wolliver. Vice President—W. E. Lord. Sec-Treas.—S. L. Cunningham. Executive—W. J. Butterill, J. Colborn, Geo. Garvey, W. A. Moore and W. E. Chadsey. The Club will assist the baseball fans in giving the new league baseball team a good send-off at the opening game. There are now fifty-five autos in town and more on the way. This is more autos per capita than any town or city in Canada.

Did You Ever Stop and Think

That if you buy real estate on usual terms, your actual cash investment is only a fraction of the profit earning value of your venture?

That the property will only require to increase LESS THAN 40 PER CENT. in value in order to give you a profit of 100 PER CENT. on your investment, at any time before future payments fall due.

That ONE HUNDRED PER CENT. PROFIT has been realized IN SCORES OF CASES in Red Deer in the past few months, in the way mentioned above, and that YOU can do it as well as anyone else, if you buy well selected property in a well selected locality.

That we have made money for a very large number of customers in the past year, and are better equipped than ever to do it now. Here is a proposition that is in the 100 per cent. class and is a positive SNAP.

FOURTEEN LOTS in RED DEER WEST, for sale in pairs or in blocks, $275 for each pair. In one of the best blocks in the subdivision. Lots selling farther out at not less than $150 and $175. Terms one-fourth cash, balance six, twelve and eighteen months. GET IN ON THIS!

THE LIFE OF PAUL FARLEY

BY JOHN MARCH

Author of "A CHILD OF MANY PRAYERS," Etc.

"And if you saw him in any danger, I suppose you wouldn't put out a finger to help him unless he implored you on his bended knees?" she said, half laughing, half irritated.

"If I saw him tumble in the river, I'd jump in and pull him out without waiting for a very pressing invitation from him," he returned, quizzically, and with something akin to a playful, paternal action he leaned forward and kissed her on the forehead.

"Good-bye, take care of yourself. I shan't be home to lunch, but I'll be back in good time to dress and dinner. Sir Thomas likes his last fast in the forenoon."

"I shan't be home to lunch, but I'll be back in good time to dress and dinner. Sir Thomas likes his last fast in the forenoon."

"Neither," she said, blushing a little. "I don't know anything about it."

"Can't do that," he protested; "the fellow knows me. You'll find me in the morning. I'll say we are thinking it over."

"Well, one moment. I know you can't stop now, but tell me, do you think it worth while to entertain the idea at all?"

"Well, Agnes," he said, coming back and closing the door, "that is for you to decide. You must know the intimacies of your own heart, my dear."

From my point of view, Paul Hunter, a tall, slender, well-proportioned man, sound, solid principles, a clever, skillful surgeon, and one who has made a name for himself in the medical world, is a man who would be of service to him when he comes into the title of a noble and a noble house.

The door closed with a substantial echo; he was gone for good this time, and Agnes was left with her housewife's duties and a money box full of thoughts that one short October day had been of no small importance.

It was a merry which sat down to enjoy the hospitality of Sir Thomas's house. The ball, of course, was the chief topic of conversation, although there was some exchange of remarks on the subject of the approaching wedding.

For instance, the approaching wedding in the Hargrave family; and Miss Partridge, who had been engaged to Hubert Graham after twenty years of devotion and romantic wooing.

As an inevitable result of this matrimonial event the barrister was in a festive mood, in the seventh heaven of delight, when at a trifling, wrapped in a large fur cloak and a knitted turtleneck sweater pulled over her bronze hair, Felix helped her into the dogcart, and they drove away laughing and chatting to Weyburn Hall.

In two. He caught the upper half, emptied the wine into a tumbler, and removed the broken pieces from the cloth to his plate. The full round the table had drifted into silence, a deadly silence. An eye was turned expectantly on his white face; he opened his lips to speak, thought better of it, and held his peace.

"I beg your pardon if I have been too premature," Graham said, feeling he had somehow got his foot into an uncomfortable rack, "but seeing it advertised, I thought the engagement was engaged to be married, duly stamped, and the state of affairs public property. Have you not seen the paper?"

"Not to-day. This is the first I've heard of it, and I think there must be some mistake. I don't believe in the distinction of being the only Paul Farley in the States."

"The Times, James," Graham said, shortly, without further argument. "I don't believe in the distinction of being the only Paul Farley in the States."

Cecilia, I gather, thinks she ought to embark on some sort of career, secure a future, provision herself against the time when the paternal homestead is a thing of the past.

"What kind of career does she anticipate? What does she consider herself fitted for?"

"Ah, well, there, that's the difficulty. She can fulfill her home duties to perfection, her domestic and general duties, but she feels there is not any one craft by which she could earn a decent livelihood."

"She wants a matrimonial career, then, I take it."

"That is the career, the sphere, she is by nature, education and training most fitted for, no doubt. I can fancy her developing into an excellent wife and mother. She is sincere, religious, a child of God, I am sure; she is not content with a merely good, wholesome stock, which is essential, most desirable in marriage than actual beauty—the sort of a woman a husband's heart might safely trust in, and he would have the comfort and peace of mind."

"You—You like Miss Hay?"

"Well, I respect her, she is an estimable woman. She is a good, sensible, practical, the managing of the Vicarage. If esteem and kindly regard could be made to blossom into love, she would ripen into something approaching affection, don't you think she would be an eligible mate to listen, as you say, to the sound, sound, practical, Felix?"

"That is entirely a matter of taste, sir, but I am inclined to think so. As far as I am concerned I should have a decided objection to that solid, sensible, good-looking woman, Miss Hay's individualism and identity. I have seen her type before to-day, sir. She is a dull, mechanical worker, a narrow-minded slave, always on the look-out, always doing, never done. That career, that path, is her steady intruder, her apt to catch a whale, she will ventilate it so long as she can get an eligible mate to listen, as you say, to the sound, sound, practical, Felix?"

"That is entirely a matter of taste, sir, but I am inclined to think so. As far as I am concerned I should have a decided objection to that solid, sensible, good-looking woman, Miss Hay's individualism and identity. I have seen her type before to-day, sir. She is a dull, mechanical worker, a narrow-minded slave, always on the look-out, always doing, never done. ALBERTA TEACHERS' CONVENTION ENDS; OFFICERS ELECTED

Red Deer Has Lots of Moisture

At the close of the third annual convention of the Alberta Educational Association, held in Calgary, Thursday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year—

Hon. President—Hon. C. R. Mitchell, minister of education; President—James McCaig, Edmonton; First Vice-President—J. E. Hodgson, Lethbridge; Second Vice-President—Dr. Scott, Calgary; Secretary and Treasurer to be elected.

It was unanimously decided to hold the next convention at Edmonton. PROFESSOR CREELMAN'S ADDRESS.

When the delegates met again Friday morning, Professor Creelman spoke to the association on the value of teaching agriculture in the public schools. The professor advised the teachers of this province to wait until Alberta had a faculty of agriculture in connection with the university, but because the other provinces had begun to realize that agriculture should be made compulsory the professor urged the hearers to hold their heads up and back up the people who are anxious to introduce this branch of study into the schools.

"OUR PERSONAL ADVICE TO ALL SKIN SUFFERERS."

GAETZ-CORNETT DRUG & BOOK CO.

We have been in business in this town for some time and we are looking to build up trade by always advising our patrons right.

So when we tell you that we have found the effective eczema remedy, you can depend upon it that we give our advice, not in order to sell a few bottles of medicine to skin sufferers, but because we know how it will help our business if we help our patrons.

We keep in stock and sell all the well known skin remedies. But we will say this: If you are suffering from any kind of skin trouble, eczema, psoriasis, rash or tetter, we want you to try a full size bottle of D.D.D. Prescription.

Again and again we have seen how a few drops of this simple wash, applied to the skin, takes away the itch instantly. And the cures all seem to be permanent.

D.D.D. Prescription, made by the D.D.D. Laboratories of Toronto is composed of thymol, glycerine, oil of wintergreen and other healing, soothing, cooling ingredients. And if you are just crazy with itch, you will feel soothed and cooled, the itch absolutely washed away the moment you apply this D.D.D. wash.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommending this remedy to a skin sufferer here and there and we want you to try it now.

FREDERICK CARLSON SENTENCED TO DEATH

First Death Sentence Pronounced in Red Deer

The Supreme Court sittings began on Tuesday before Mr. Justice Scott. Thirteen prisoners were arraigned on seventeen charges. All pleaded not guilty, save Chuze, who admitted stealing a gun going from W. J. Rush, Red Deer, on March 12, and Summerton, who pleaded guilty to stealing 25 head of cattle from the Augers, near Stettler, but not to stealing three head from other parties.

Geo. Patterson, near Gadaby, was placed on trial for an alleged offence against a young girl who claimed to be under fourteen at the time the offence was committed. The evidence was very contradictory, and the girl's story did not receive sufficient corroboration, apparently, to justify a verdict of guilty. There was some suspicion, too, that the charge was laid out of spite by Hannah Hayes, Patterson's housekeeper, and whose relations with Patterson were admittedly not of the best.

The girl, who was named, was quarrelled, and the woman seemed to have had something to do in prompting the girl to lay the charge sixteen months ago. The girl's recollections of the date were confusing. Mr. Russell for the Crown. Mr. McMillan for the defence.

Frederick Carlson was placed on trial for the murder of "Dick" Merritt near Hamilton Lake on August 21, 1911. The two men had been good friends, and Carlson slept with Merritt at the latter's shack that night. He admitted that he had struck Merritt, when the latter lay in bed in the morning, three or four times in the head and neck with an axe because he got mad when Merritt laughed at some questions Carlson asked him.

As the prisoner had on several occasions admitted that he had committed the deed, and what evidence there was against him was strong, the defence tried to have him cleared of the offence by alleging the insanity of the prisoner, but were unable to make it hold before the jury. Shortly before noon the jury retired, and about four p.m. brought in a verdict of "Guilty," after which the accused was sentenced to be hanged at the Lethbridge jail on June 19. During the entire case Carlson was very unconcerned, and even when sentence was passed on him did not show any great emotions.

Lethbridge Roasts Marshall

(Calgary Herald)

The associated boards of trade in Southern Alberta have taken full out of the Hon. Duncan Marshall, who is reported, in a moment of expansiveness, to have offered the services of the Liberal government and of himself in the way of assisting the city of Lethbridge charter a special boosters' train. But Lethbridge should remember that between the time that the minister of agriculture is reported to have made the promise, and the time for its fulfillment has arrived, the provincial elections were held, and Lethbridge dared to express its political views, which are directly antagonistic to those cherished by the Hon. Duncan Marshall. The resolution of the associated boards reads as follows:

"Whereas, certain promises were made to this association, through their president, by the Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture of the Alberta government, that certain aid would be forthcoming to this association from the provincial government in the matter of the running of a boosters' train through the mid-central States this coming summer; that now the said Mr. Marshall denies having made," etc., etc.

This is the sort of pin-head treatment the province has to put up with at the hands of the Sif-on government. The Herald knows nothing of this case more than appears in public print, but if the provincial government is small enough to back down from its promises like a spoiled baby because a particular constituency seems to be discontented right to elect whom it likes, then the sooner it is kicked out of office the better.

Chances are that Mr. Marshall's connection with the affair was nothing more than an attempt to make Lethbridge safe for the Liberal party.

WOMAN'S BEAUTY.

It Can Never Be Perfect Without Luxuriant Hair.

A head of luxuriant hair is sure to be attractive. But nature has not crowned every woman with glorious hair. Some very lovely women have hair that is treated rather scantily in this respect.

For instance, there are tens of thousands of women in Canada today, who have harsh, faded and listless hair, who are unattractive simply because they do not know that nowadays even the whims of nature can be overruled by the genius of science.

If you are a woman without beautiful hair, do not permit your attractions to be hidden because of this slight misfortune.

Go today to Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co. and buy a large bottle of Parisian Sage for 50 cents, use it each night, and you will notice the harsh, repulsive hair disappear, and in its place will come soft, silky, bright and luxuriant hair. Parisian Sage is guaranteed by Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co. to cure dandruff, itching of the scalp, and stop falling hair in two weeks, or money back.

Cheap Money

The Ponoka Herald has a very good article on cheap money, one of the principal planks in the provincial Conservative platform. The article is as follows:

The most imperative need of the settler in this country is cheap money, without which his prosperity must of necessity be retarded in a ratio proportionate to his requirements for capital with which to open up, and develop his farmstead or to improve his stock.

So far back as 1894, the New Zealand Government, seeing that debt money, when advanced to the settler, was acting as a retardation rather than an advancement to the prosperity of their country, passed enactments in that year which today stand with few amendments, and these were for increasing the scope and usefulness of the act, and which today bear witness as an example of that government's good judgment, thrift, and economy in legalizing the introduction of a cheap monetary system for the advancement of the farmer, and one that is worthy, in the opinion of the writer, of emulation by the Western Provinces of Canada.

A brief consideration of the New Zealand Act will to many be instructive, and at the same time point a moral and adorn a tale. In the year mentioned an Act was passed authorizing the raising of $15,000,000 at 4 per cent, with which to loan farmers on the security of their land at an annual rate of interest of 4 1/2 per cent for prompt payment. The advance to settlers was fixed at a minimum of $125 and a maximum of $12,500 repayable in 361 years by half-yearly instalments of three per cent on the amount borrowed. Since then various amendments to the Act have been made, so that the loaning power has been increased to $30,000,000, and power is also given to the Government Investment Department to borrow money for the purpose of these loans not exceeding $7,500,000 in any one year.

The amendment of 1910 provided for the classification of securities into three grades for the purpose of determining the term for which an instalment loan may be granted. Previously all of these loans ran for the same period, namely, 361 years. These were graded as follows: On first class security, 361 years; second class, 36 years; and third class, 20 years.

Application for loans not exceeding $2500 have priority over applications for loans of less than $2500. Loans are graduated for all loans less than $500, two and a half dollars, and up to ten and a half dollars on loans for $15,000.

Expert land valuers are permanently employed, and special arrangements are made with the post-office so that mortgagors are enabled to pay their instalments and interest to the credit of the department at its post-office in the country. The details of the plan as working in New Zealand are taken from the official year book for 1910. The practicability of the government of New Zealand loaning money to the settlers has been tested out and proven a success. General satisfaction prevails. The government has good security, and is assured of not being on the losing side, and, on the other hand, the settlers get the money required for development work on easy terms and at a reasonable rate of interest. This results in a great saving to the country. Instead of going to the account of mortgage loans and financial concerns, the money for high interest is being used in the development and well being of the state, with a very small portion directly turned into the public treasury. The writer is of opinion that much good might accrue to this province were a similar enactment passed by our legislators, and he desires to draw the attention of the reader to a plank in the platform of the Conservative party that was formulated with this object in view, at Calgary, on the 6th March last—Clause II.—"Advocating legislation which will serve as a lever to enable government aid to be granted toward the making of loans to settlers and workers at a low rate of interest or legislation along the line of that enacted in this respect in Australia and New Zealand."

THE TITANIC DISASTER.

The awful catastrophe which befel the new White Star liner, Titanic, off Cape Race, Sunday night last, has filled the civilized world with horror, and a wave of sympathy such as has been rarely displayed has swept over the people with regard to the surviving sufferers.

But, while we are torn with conflicting sentiment as to the heroism displayed by the passengers and crew, we cannot overlook the fact that there must have been gross carelessness among officials to allow such a thing to happen.

It is charged that the captain was at his dinner from seven to after nine o'clock when he should have been on the bridge. It has been charged that J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star line, who was on board, was trying to make a record run, and was pushing the steamer to its utmost capacity, regardless of danger. But the captain, who was supreme on his own ship, did not apparently take the necessary precautions for the safety of his passengers, because there was no headlight in operation, otherwise the iceberg could have been seen for miles away. He had tried to look to the safety of his people, and afterwards take any suggestion from a director of the line. He seems to have done just the opposite. Although they had reached the ice floe, and had passed icebergs one hundred feet in height, the speed of the vessel does not seem to have been reduced to any extent.

Captain Smith bravely refused to leave his ship, and paid for his apparent neglect or overconfidence with his life. Mr. Ismay remains to explain the case. It is hoped he can clear all concerned from blame.

THE RED DEER DRAMATIC SOCIETY.

Once more this excellent society, composed of local talent, has scored a decided triumph, and citizens have shown their appreciation by the largest patronage ever given a local performance.

It is impossible for a local paper to give praise sufficient strong to recompense the ladies and gentlemen of the society for their untiring efforts, long hours of study, money spent for expensive costumes and the one hundred and one things that go to increase the cost of such a production.

The artistic scenery would do credit to any city and surpassed that of most travelling troupes, while the make-up of the performers was remarkably well done and reflected great credit on the gentlemen in charge of this department.

The play last week was different to any former performance, and was a laugh from start to finish. Several times the audience forgot the personnel of the players entirely and were carried away by the plot, sympathizing with some of the characters, which is perhaps the greatest achievement that could be tendered the actors.

We feel that we are expressing the feeling of the citizens when we say we are proud of the dramatic talent of our town as displayed in the performances of the Red Deer Dramatic Society, and we hope for another opportunity of hearing them in the near future, promising them the same enthusiastic reception so long as they maintain their present high standing of proficiency.

THE DUNVEGAN LINE.

It will be noticed that despatches from Edmonton state that cutting the right-of-way on this line has commenced. This is the new A. & G.W. It will bear a lot of watching. For one hundred miles the route of this line runs parallel with the line of the C.N.R. already built to Athabasca Landing. The existing line was built under a guarantee of $15,000 a mile; the Dunvegan line is guaranteed at $20,000. It would be interesting to know who divides the profit. This line to Dunvegan is 350 miles long, all guaranteed. There has never been any special demand for it, but it is given preference and is being rushed along. The line to Peace River has been demanded for years, but it is only guaranteed at $15,000 and only for 100 miles, and yet these lines are not very far apart. Compare this with the Edmonton-Dunvegan line. Such a glaring discrepancy will need a lot of ingenious explanation. It is the big Liberal turnover—the turnover of enraged men who love decency and honesty—that will ensure a change of government when the general election comes. Most men in Alberta have already done their thinking on the political situation. Everybody is ready for the ballot, so come along with the election, Mr. Premier. The time does not much matter—the result is a foregone conclusion.

C.P.R. FARMS FOR LETHBRIDGE

The Lethbridge News says: J. S. Dennis, assistant to the president of the C.P.R., and head of the department of natural resources, announced a further step in the policy of the company to prove by an object lesson that mixed farming is the best form of agriculture for western Canada. The company has decided to establish in this section twenty-five farms, to be operated on the basis of production of all kinds of grain in small areas, together with dairying, poultry, hog raising, and root crops. He states that the company's policy in the future will be more closely along the line of colonization and development than of disposing of its land. He looks forward to an enormous immigration into Alberta this year, and particularly into this section, and the company is arranging to bring a large number of selected farmers, from among whom will be chosen those who have the choice of selection of the ready-made mixed farms this spring.

Fishing Regulations

Dear Sir,—
As there appears to be much doubt as to the fishing regulations, I beg to quote from an act passed on the 12th of February, 1912, the following extracts with relation to fishing in Alberta and Saskatchewan:

Section 20 of the Act reads as follows, viz:—
"No one shall fish for, catch or kill any Pike (Jack fish), Pickerel (Horse), Perch or Goldeyes from the 1st day of April to the 15th day of May, inclusive, except in water north of or intersected by the 54th parallel of North latitude between the Eastern boundary of Saskatchewan and the 109 Meridian and in waters north of or intersected by the 55th parallel of North latitude between the 10th Meridian and the western boundary of Alberta."

Sec. 22 (b). "In the Red Deer river and its tributaries and the North Saskatchewan River and its tributaries no one shall fish for, catch or kill any Trout, Grayling or Rocky Mountain Whitefish from the 1st day of September, in each year, to the 30th day of April following, both days inclusive."

Sec. 34 (c). "No one shall in any lake, pond or stream, catch or kill any Pike (Jack fish), Pickerel (Horse), Perch or Goldeyes from the 1st day of September to the 15th day of May, inclusive, except in water north of or intersected by the 54th parallel of North latitude between the Eastern boundary of Saskatchewan and the 109 Meridian and in waters north of or intersected by the 55th parallel of North latitude between the 10th Meridian and the western boundary of Alberta."

Sec. 32 (b). "In the Red Deer river and its tributaries and the North Saskatchewan River and its tributaries no one shall fish for, catch or kill any Trout, Grayling or Rocky Mountain Whitefish from the 1st day of September, in each year, to the 30th day of April following, both days inclusive."

Sec. 34 (c). "No one shall in any lake, pond or stream, catch or kill any Pike (Jack fish), Pickerel (Horse), Perch or Goldeyes from the 1st day of September to the 15th day of May, inclusive, except in water north of or intersected by the 54th parallel of North latitude between the Eastern boundary of Saskatchewan and the 109 Meridian and in waters north of or intersected by the 55th parallel of North latitude between the 10th Meridian and the western boundary of Alberta."

CAPT. COTTINGHAM.

ENGLAND'S SORROW TEMPERED WITH REJOICING AT BRAVERY DISPLAYED BY WRECK VICTIMS

Chivalry Still Existent

London, April 20—England mourns, but England also rejoices. She mourns her dead, but boasts their noble bearing in the face of a death dealing calamity, and every man walks prouder through London's streets today knowing that the sons of the Empire and of the Union have proved under an overwhelming calamity that the blood of the race and its adherence to principle can triumph over death. Though the elemental forces of nature have destroyed man's handiwork yet man's soul rides victor over all nature's harshest menaces. Throughout England today the note of thousands of sermons and innumerable leading articles is "our sons still know how to die." The story of the Titanic's heroes has moved the heart of the nation as it has never moved before. Every Londoner in the streets finds himself impelled to tender a strange courtesy to every woman he meets. In the street cars even at the busiest and most crowded hours men now rise with alacrity to offer women their seats. The example of the brave men who went down with the liner has gone deep into the hearts of men and the spirit of chivalry has been rekindled.

When the news came on Monday morning that the Titanic had struck an iceberg and was dangerously damaged, people refused at first to credit it. The White Star offices of Cockspur street were thronged with hosts of eager people demanding intelligence of the stricken steamship. For a few hours their hopes were raised on false cables and their hearts were buoyed up.

BLOW WAS OVERWHELMING. Then the worst became certain, and the truth was known. I saw men grow old within an hour, their faces turned grey and shrunken, their vitality almost shivering up, under the crushing blow. Little was said, for men's hearts were too full for words, and women even forgot to cry, but waited in sorrow for further news. Cockspur street became a scene of woe as London waited impatiently for further news. The long hours passed by and on Thursday men began to ask: "Why is the Carpathia silent? Why has she not sent news?" It was thought by many that her message was too terrible for words. Public anxiety was never so tense as in those hours, then Friday morning came, and with it, the Carpathia's message which carried the worst blow of all. The earliest reports declared the captain of the liner had committed suicide, and that the chief engineer had shot himself. Several of the morning papers, including the Times and the Daily Mail, refused to credit the story and declined to print it. Others, notably among them the Daily Chronicle, printed special editions with flaring headlines, emphasizing the worst.

SUICIDE STORIES UNTRUE. These grey morning headlines were England's bitterest. Men turned to one another with doubt and dread tearing at their souls, asking had manhood failed under the intolerable strain. Those who knew Captain Smith and his officers, having often travelled with him, were confounded, and their high hopes and confidence predictions almost failed us. But two hours later we knew the truth. The stories of the suicides were lies and the sailors had more courage than the great occasions, now England's woe is not of lamentation. We weep not for the dead but strive to emulate their achievements.

RED DEER IN NEED OF HOTEL ACCOMMODATION

Board of Trade Passes Strong Resolution in Connection With Matter

A meeting of the Board of Trade, Council was held Friday in Secretary Davidson's office to again take up the very serious matter of the great lack of hotel accommodation in Red Deer, and it was brought to light that on Monday night nearly two hundred men were unable to secure beds. After considerable discussion on the subject the following resolution was passed: "Whereas, the need for further hotel accommodation at this point has been assumed by the local press; and that it has been shown that recently as many as 200 people in one night were unable to secure beds, and whereas, with the increasing activity in Red Deer and vicinity this accommodation promises to grow steadily worse as the season advances, and whereas, the proprietors of local hotels and interested capital outside of these, decline to take any action to improve the conditions until the question of local option is settled; therefore be it resolved that this local representation be made at once to the honorable attorney general of this province and to the Temperance and Moral Reform league, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the honorable attorney general and to the secretary of the Temperance and Moral Reform league."

School Board Will Erect Teachers' Home

NEW SCHOOL IN SOUTH END

The regular meeting of the School Board was held Thursday evening last, Chairman Simpson presiding and trustees Payne, Gaetz, Carswell and Munro in attendance.

The committee appointed to interview the medical men of town, regarding medical examination of children in school, reported progress and asked for an extension of time. Granted.

The property committee carried out the recommendations of the inspector except with regard to the vacuum cleaner and the fire escape. The vacuum cleaner will be more fully discussed later and the fire escape will be attended to. The fire inspector recommended another fire escape on west side of school reaching to assembly hall, as the present fire escape does not reach the assembly hall on the north.

The property committee will attend to this at once.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were passed: Day Hardware Co. $1.85, Day Hardware Co. 2.95, S. A. McNeil 2.50, M. A. Munro 2.00, E. G. Johns & Co. 12.60, Cushing Bros. 5.88, T. A. Co. 1.50, Alberta School Supply Co. 67.04, Red Deer Town 12.50, Gaetz-Cornett Co. 1.30, Gaetz-Cornett Co. 21.30.

The Natural History Society was granted the use of the assembly hall for annual meeting and also that a natural history collection be placed in the school library.

A. R. Gibson was granted leave of absence for one month filling summer holidays to visit his parents in the Old Land.

The young ladies were granted the use of the grounds for basketball.

A tennis court will also be placed in the yard for pupils of the school.

A motion was put through asking permission to issue debentures to the amount of $10,000 for purchase of school sites.

The Board took into consideration the question of erecting a teachers' residence. The question will be taken up at next meeting.

Graders Camp Along Right of Way of C.N. Line to Calgary

Construction of South-West Air Line Started Immediately—Contractors Will Lose No Time in Having Road Cleared in Advance of the Grading Machines.

Construction work on the line of the Canadian Northern between Strathcona and Calgary is to commence several weeks earlier even than was expected. Grading outfits have unloaded there during the week and are now establishing camps along the right-of-way, starting near Strathcona, and extending a considerable distance southwest. This is the final word of substantiation to the news which was made public last week, less than a fortnight ago that the C.N.R. intended to push construction on the Edmonton-Calgary route early in the summer.

GRADERS ON THE GROUND. Two outfits of graders are reported to have pitched camp on the right-of-way within seven miles of Strathcona. It is also understood that the right-of-way is negotiating for the letting of sub-contracts in Steathcona, and this important and large undertaking will be opened immediately at several places along the survey between there and Lacombe. For a distance of perhaps 50 miles southeast of Strathcona the timber is fairly heavy along most of the survey, but south of that the clearance of the right-of-way will be a comparatively light task. For the most part, the country is level and dry, and grading operations should be pushed rapidly once the right-of-way is clear. It was thought that the southwest line would not be begun until after the completion of grading work on the Camrose extension, the presence of contractors there this week makes clear the fact that the Canadian Northern is desirous of establishing the rival line of the C.P.R. to Calgary without more delay.

BISHOP ATTACKS

NE TEMERE DECREE

The Only Settlement a Federal Marriage Law, He Declares—Appeals to Protestants

Halifax, N.S., April 10.—Bishop Worrell, in his charge to the Diocesan Synod, making reference to the Ne Temere decree, said Roman Catholics had sought to make people believe that it had no reference to the Protestant world, and some Anglican brethren had aided this by accepting the Roman Catholic contention in regard to the French law in Quebec.

The premature exercise of assured authority by Archbishop Bruchesi, in annulling the Herbert marriage, has forced upon Protestant notice, he said.

"The insidious nature of this attempt to frighten their people and gain control over their home, while it might be kept within the fold of their wandering sheep, could not but be fraught with the gravest danger to the morality of the people."

After declaring that Justice Char-bonneau's decision would be surely appealed, he said every non-Roman Catholic should stand for Madame Helbert securing her rights, and that no foreign ruler have jurisdiction in this land. The only settlement was the enactment by the Federal Parliament of a uniform marriage law for all the provinces.

"Allow this Ne Temere thing," he said, "and before long a similar claim will be made in other matters, and gradually the old oppressions, from which the British nation freed itself at the time of the Reformation settlement, will be introduced. The magnificent organization of the Church of Rome and its loyal membership may be admired, but cannot be trusted. Neither can the divided councils and internal jealousies of the Protestant churches be trusted or admired."

He hoped that in this case, where the rights of all were affected, there would be united action.

HUSBANDS WATCH WOMEN ROW TO SAFETY AS LINER SINKS BENEATH SURFACE

Heartrending Cries From Doomed Men Reach Ears of Wives and Daughters in Lifeboats, Driving Them Almost to Madness, As Giant Steamer With Roar Plunges to Her Ocean Tomb

New York, April 19.—The docking of the Carpathia last night ruthlessly dispelled for once and for all the hopes which have been entertained that the lists of the Titanic's survivors supplied by wireless had been incomplete. With no known exception, the roll of the first and second cabins was absolutely correct.

Winnipeg has been bereaved of three of her prominent citizens, at least. Hugo Rose, Thompson Battie and Mark Fortune were among those who went down with the ill-fated vessel, while the latter's son also stood by his father when the vessel sank.

Of the passengers from Winnipeg in the first and second cabins, only Mrs. Fortune and her three daughters stepped on deck last night when the Carpathia moored. The party included Miss Ethel Fortune, whose name was not included in the first list of survivors.

A desolate party, heartbroken and distraught, they were escorted to a waiting auto and conveyed unattended to the Belmont hotel, where they went straight to their room and refused to converse with any one.

CALGARY PASSENGERS SAFE.
Mr. and Mrs. Dick of Calgary are also among the survivors and were also conveyed to the Belmont.

Mrs. Dick, interviewed at the dock said she could hardly realize the dreadful adventure which she had passed through, and the tragedy which she had witnessed. She and her husband had embarked on the first of the lifeboats before the real disaster in which the Titanic stood was realized by the officers.

The passengers, she stated, were quite unconcerned as to what had happened or the extent of the damage, until after several of the boats had been filled and the order was given that no more men should be allowed to leave the boat until the women and children had been accommodated.

"SPLENDID," SAYS MRS. DICK.
"As we pulled away," said Mrs. Dick, "we heard the band playing 'Swear, my God, to Thee' and saw the men by the rail—they were splendid."

Mr. and Mrs. Dick retired as soon as they arrived at the hotel. It is estimated that out of the first and second cabins only two Canadians of the male sex were saved from the wrecked vessel. These were Mr. Dick of Calgary and Major Peuchen of Toronto.

The Grand Trunk Company today mourn the loss of its president and manager, for Charles M. Hays is numbered among the dead. Mrs. Hays and daughter were together in a special train in waiting, and left for Montreal at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Hays was in a state of collapse, and acted hysterically as she was being conveyed to the car.

SADDEST OF SAIL SIGHTS.

Probably one of the saddest among many sad sights was the meeting of J. Wesley Allison of Morrisburg with his little grandson and nurse. The mother, father nor the two-year-old sister of the baby were present, they having perished together in the tragedy of the Titanic.

The sight of the infant child in its nurse's arms on the dock was most pathetic.

Not alone was the little one, for kind hearts turned from every side to lend ministering aid.

CHARLES GROSS
Of the Canadian passengers, Major Peuchen alone could be interviewed last night at any length. His interview was a bitter arraignment of what Major Peuchen charged nothing but gross carelessness on the part of those in charge of the vessel.

The captain, Major Peuchen declares, was aware of the danger of the ice floes, and yet appeared to give little heed.

LAST HEARTRENDING CRY.
"As we rowed away from the Titanic," continued Major Peuchen, "we could see her slowly settling for the final plunge. I cannot describe to you the awful heartrending cry that broke from those hundreds of people as the huge ship went to her watery grave."

"The people were crowded into the stern; they were bunched and huddled up into one dense mass. Several tried to get over the side equipped only with lifebelts, a scanty protection against ice and water, to say nothing of being drawn into the vortex."

"The collapsible lifeboats, too, appeared to be unsatisfactory. These crafts were too frail to withstand the heavy weather, and in many of the boats people were sitting knee deep in water, with the result that there was much suffering among the survivors."

TOUCHING INCIDENTS.
Perhaps one of the most touching incidents of the evening occurred when a stranger approached Mr. Peuchen with the query: "Did you come off the Carpathia?" "Yes,"

"Did you know my brother, Mr. Smith; he looks something like you, and I thought perhaps you might have known him."

There was no information given. HELD REVOLVER AT HEAD.
"The liner struck at 11:56 and went down two hours and a half later. There was no panic. One young German had shot into the air, as he said, to attract attention to the injured ship. A ship's officer drew his revolver and held it to the head of one man who was attempting to enter one of the lifeboats with his wife. But there was no fighting while the women and children were being taken off."

CAPTAIN IS CRITICIZED.
Dr. A. Bernard, of Montreal, who accompanied Dr. Senecal, and who will leave today to resume the journey that was interrupted when they went to the assistance of the Titanic, said:

"Captain Smith was not well spoken of by the passengers. They criticized him for having given them false information about the injury to the ship. When the orders were given for the women and children to enter the lifeboats, many did not want to go. They did not appreciate the danger. This accounts for a number of male passengers having gotten into the boat, but there was no rush as far as we could hear."

(Special dispatch to the Herald)
New York, April 18.—Speed madness and an express train schedule for ocean liners, caused the Titanic tragedy.

Dashing at a rate of 20 knots an hour through an icefield ocean, the liner, the acme of luxury, and the last word in marine architecture, hurtled madly against an immovable mountain of ice, and two hours and twenty-five minutes later had disappeared from sight forever.

The rescue ship, Carpathia, agreed that the speed had not been reduced. All said that the night was wonderfully perfect, the brilliant rays of the moon bringing out a startling distinction to the great mountains of ice that dotted the edge of the great banks of Newfoundland, where the tragedy occurred.

The band was playing soft music in the saloon, many of the passengers had retired. Others were on deck, watching the majestic ocean still others sat carelessly in the various cabins, some smoking, others quietly talking.

Then came a grinding crash. The floating hotel staggered, then seemed to recover, plunged forward again and a shower of ice masses fell forward on the forward part, crushing to death straggling passengers and members of the crew stationed there.

For a moment or two things were quiet, then came a change and all was excitement and confusion for a time, until the news spread that the Titanic was "unsinkable," then quiet and calmness again replaced the chaos.

BOWELS BLOWN OUT OF ILL-FATED LEVIATHAN.

Robert W. Daniels, a Philadelphia banker, says that when the icy water poured into the boiler room, two separate explosions followed that blew the bowels out of the liner. Others say they did not hear any explosions.

Pistol shots were fired. Some survivors say they were fired at the men who tried to force the women and children out of the way. No one who claimed to be an eye witness to the shooting could be located to-night.

One story told in circumstantial detail was that the captain and his officer shot themselves, but Daniels and other passengers positively say they saw the white-headed, grizzled face of the veteran mariner over the top of the bridge just before the railing disappeared. They say that not until they did he jump into the ocean to be drawn down forever in the suction that marked the last plunge of the Titanic.

The plight of the survivors in the boats was pitiful in the extreme. A few of the women or men had sufficient clothing but they shivered in the bitter cold.

BROUGHT STARK TERROR

TO THE VICTIMS.
The bergs and drifting ice crashed thunderingly, bringing stark terror the helpless victims. Two women dug out at the heavy oars, tearing their hands till the blood came, while but few of the boats were fully manned.

Some stood aside deliberately refusing life, while the women might have a chance for safety.

Daybreak found the little flotilla bounding and tossing on the surface as it was not known that help was coming. Some women tried to jump into the water and had to be forcibly restrained. The babies, little tots, just old enough to realize their position, found themselves moved, they set an example which moved their elders to tears, as they lay in their stricken parents.

Off in the distant horizon a sailor on the leading boat discerned something.

"We are saved," went up the cry, and the rescue came just in time for the Carpathia had taken aboard the occupants of the last frail craft the waves were increasing in height, and kicked up by the wind but had increased with the rising of the sun.

All were tenderly cared for on the Carpathia, the regular passengers willingly giving up their cabins to the refugees. Medical aid was forthcoming and nothing left undone that could be done to relieve the distressed.

HEROIC DEATH OF COL. ASTOR AND MAJOR BUTT.

New York, April 18.—Col. John Jacob Astor and Major Archibald Butt died together on the bridge of the sinking Titanic. Dr. Washington Dodge of San Francisco, described their heroic death as follows:

"The last I saw of Major Butt and Col. Astor, the two were standing on the bridge of the Titanic apparently with their arms outstretched about each other as soldiers. This was the last glimpse I had of them from the lifeboat. Throughout the whole panic, and during the loading of the boats, Butt and Astor assisted the ship's officers. Like soldiers, they seemed, as I remember it, the two were together throughout the whole of the panic. I saw their figures outlined against the sky. I am confident that the Titanic broke in two, and that was why she sank. I remember that after she struck she rocked fearfully several times.

OTHERS MIGHT HAVE BEEN BROUGHT SAFELY ASHORE.

"All of the boats were not completely filled. One, I think, only had five passengers. The reason the boats were not filled was due to the fact that few could be convinced that the ship had to go down, and many went back to bed. The crew was finally convinced that the boat was really sinking. Some of the stewards were riding bicycles around the gymnasium as the boat was sinking, while others were playing handball. Many of the passengers and crew stood at the rails and ridiculed those who had taken to lifeboats as land lubbers. It was when the water crept over the top decks that the first cry of passengers realized their serious position.

Wm. Moody, of the Titanic, said that First Officer Wild of the Titanic, who was on the bridge when the vessel struck the berg, killed himself. He said that Wild drew his revolver and shot himself as he realized that the accident was serious. "We were running 23 miles an hour," said Moody, "when we struck. We encountered a cloud of haze, probably coming direct from the iceberg, and we probably could not have been more than one or two lengths into it before we hit. We struck the 'growler' and the Titanic simply went over it and broke her back. There was no chance for the compartment doors to close." Moody declared that on the day preceding the tragedy the Titanic had logged 565 miles.

AMBITION

The chief benefit of AMBITION is that it makes men WORK.

The desire to get money without work is not ambition. It is COVETOUSNESS.

The hope of attaining fame or public notice without deserving it is not ambition. It is VANITY.

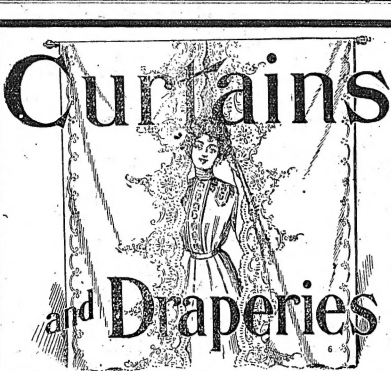

The longing for heaven by the flowery-beds-of-ease route is not ambition. It is NERVE, and lots of it.

Verily, verily, I say unto you that the man who SAYS he is ambitious to succeed and will not WORK, is a LIAR, and the truth is not in him.

WORK is the passport to ATTAINMENT, and AMBITION is what fires the furnace in the soul of the true worker. It may take the form of an enjoyment of daily tasks that makes each moment's labor a delight, or the form of a set purpose that enables a man to look beyond the distasteful work of to-day to the great reward of to-morrow—no matter, so long as it keeps the man at work. The point is that AMBITION is the power behind the throne of the mind, the Alchemy that turns all duty into joy.

AMBITION takes no inventories of the PAST. It has its HAND upon the PRESENT, its Eye upon the Future.

Ambition can be cultivated. Think about the FUTURE. Plan for SUCCESS. Read and study the lives of the GREAT. Fletcherize with BOOKS. Talk with LIVE PEOPLE. Tug at your own BOOTSTRAPS. Cut out the CHORUS GIRLS and mingle with the STARS. Stop worrying about Ancestry and think about Posterity. Remember that 1920 will be here, unless Gabriel interferes; be prepared in either case.

ADJOURNED COUNCIL MEETING

Commissioners Want All Property to Pay for Improvements

The adjourned meeting of the Town Council, Wednesday night, last, was attended by all the members except Councillor Caracallean, with the Mayor in the chair.
The main item of business was the special report of the Commissioners that cost of local improvements in front of property be charged up to said property.

COMMISSIONERS' SPECIAL REPORT
We have gone fully into the question of local improvements, such as plank walks, cement walks, sewers and waterworks, particularly as regards finances, and we believe that some changes in the policy of dealing with these should be made.

The adoption of the single tax necessitates some changes in system and more care and attention to financing. At present our finances are in an excellent condition and it should be the policy of the Council to maintain this. It appears to us that the changes we recommend should be made at once, if the town will not find itself in the position some towns and cities are in today, where they are crippled in their financing through errors of previous Councils in not attending to this branch of the town work. The adoption of the policies we recommend will save us money if they are carried out and we ask your serious consideration of them.

PLANK SIDEWALKS.
It is the universal practice of cities and of most towns to charge the cost of street fronting or abutting on them, the city or town paying the entire cost of street fronting or abutting on them, the city or town paying the entire cost of street fronting or abutting on them, the city or town paying the entire cost of street fronting or abutting on them.

On the waterworks system is a public utility and should be self-supporting, that is, the revenue received should pay the annual repayments of debentures as well as the cost of operation and maintenance. A frontage tax of 5 cents per foot has been charged the past few years to assist in meeting these charges, but the extensions made the past few years have been costly and few services have been installed on them, so that the revenue from water services has been very little and the frontage tax levied, together with the water rates, have not paid the carrying charges. Should extensions be made in the future on the same policy as in the past the waterworks department will soon have a considerable deficit. The carrying charges for 1912 will be about as follows:
Repayments on debentures ... $691.01
60 per cent. water rates to Western General ... 1516.34
Insurance repairs, etc. ... 743.47
Total ... 2950.82

Receipts—
Water rates ... 2525.56
Frontage tax at 5 cents per foot ... 2500.00

Total ... 5025.56

These figures are based on the revenue and cost of maintenance for 1911. The deficit at the end of the year would be about $3,000.00.

The above figures do not include the charge for hydrants of $1,000.00, which will be paid out of general revenue, as is customary.

We estimate the frontage assessable this year at 50,000 feet. A tax of 10 cents per foot would produce a revenue of $5,000 which, added to the water rates received, which will be more this year than last, will bring the waterworks department out, about even at the end of the year.

The water frontage tax is levied on all property abutting on streets and is raised or reduced every year. It seems more advisable to raise the frontage tax than the rates because a raise in the rates might prevent owners of property from installing the waterworks, and it would not meet the difficulty we are trying to overcome, that of building extensions where the revenue and frontage tax will not pay the carrying charges. The frontage tax of 10 cents per foot will about cover the cost of the average extension and adoption of this tax will enable the town to build extensions to the mains wherever the property owners want them with little cost to the town. It must be remembered, of course, that the extension of the mains means more hydrants, on which $50.00 each must be paid per year.

SEWERS.
A frontage tax of 7 cents per foot has been charged for these. On the average lateral sewer this tax will meet the cost of the sewer.

The amount of the outstanding debentures amounts to $1,764.85. The frontage tax collected this year at 7 cents per foot will amount to $2,500.00, leaving $2,500.00 to be raised by the town at large. As a sewer system is not considered a public utility, there being no revenue derived from it, this amount to be paid by the town at large is reasonable when it is considered that it covers the cost of the outfall sewer, catch basins, etc., besides carrying off wastes that would otherwise have to be disposed of, and carrying off the surface water from any of the streets. On sewer extensions we recommend that the present policy of charging 7 cents per foot frontage tax be continued.

On the frontage tax for waterworks we would propose to continue the practice of remitting the tax to the amount of the rates paid annually.

A. T. STEPHENSON, R. B. WELLMER, Commissioners.

The Commissioners stated that they would have to withdraw that part of the report recommending the increase of the water frontage tax from 5 cents a foot to 10 cents a foot, as the town, under its special act, was not given power to do so.

The various recommendations were discussed at length. Commissioner Stephenson pointed out that it was a matter of finances. These local services of walks, water, and sewers should pay their way and not become a charge on the general rate. It was the universal practice in cities where these improvements were put in to have the cost of the same carried by the property benefited. Under that system the property owners were left absolutely free in the matter. If the majority wanted to pay for these services, they could have them put in; if they did not want to pay for them, they need not have them. When the town paid for them, as at present, the tendency was to push the town into unprofitable services. They were being asked for these services, and the pressure from the outlying parts was constantly increasing.

The Mayor agreed with Commissioner Stephenson, and remarked that the new scheme was only a matter of business and finance. The town would be continually worried about grants for walks, for instance, under the old system, but by adopting the new system people could have what they wanted by petitioning for it, as they would pay for it themselves. He felt it was the only true way out of the difficulty. All cities have adopted the system.

There was considerable discussion of a general nature by members of the Council until they understood the proposition, when the report was adopted on motion of Councillors Galbraith and Botsford.

James A. Youmans asked permission to erect a small addition to the rear of his residence, 9 x 12 feet, for the accommodation of his sick wife. This was allowable under the late report of the fire inspector, and the Council therefore granted the privilege.

Mr. Cameron asked permission to build a frame building over his oven in the rear of his store which could be used as a store house. No action taken.

Moved by Councillors Galbraith and Malloch, that the town solicitor be requested to indicate to the Council, as soon as possible, what advantages the town would gain by coming under the Alberta Town Act of 1911 over what it now possesses under its special act; what advantage the town now possesses under its special act which would be lost in case the town came under the Towns' Bill, and what advantages and disadvantages would follow from the town to become incorporated as a city. Carried.

NUISANCE GROUND.

The Mayor reported that the Commissioners had visited the school quarter—the southwest quarter of 29-38-27, W4—which the town wanted for a nuisance ground, and which the Commissioners and Capt. Cottingham and the Dominion Lands Agents had finally induced the Interior Department to place on the market. The upset price had been placed at $20. The land, owing to its proximity to the town, was worth a great deal more. The Commissioners were empowered to attend the sale the next morning and use their best judgment in bidding for the land. As it was pretty well known among parties interested that the town wanted the land, the Commissioners hoped that the price would not be run up too high.

There were other places in view, the Mayor said, which the Commissioners had visited, and it would be up to the Council to decide after inspection. They had to buy this school quarter, however, at the auction sale, if they had any thought of using that, but, if the Council decided on another location, the land could easily be disposed of.

The quarter section would also provide for a post house for small-pox cases. The temporary post-house on the exhibition grounds had been burnt down. The cost to the town of caring for the two small-pox patients had been nearly $1000. He felt rather sore over this, and was consequently very anxious to get proper isolation and provision for these cases.

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY.

Councillors Botsford and Botsford introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: "Red Deer citizens deeply deplore the great national calamity, the loss of life by accident to Titanic. Our sympathy is with all bereaved."

—R. B. Wellmer, Mayor.
Council then adjourned at 11.45.

The agreement between the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific Branch Lines Co., and Messrs. Foley, Welch and Stewart, with regard to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway between Vancouver and Fort George, provides that the two first named companies, which have the right to construct a line of railway between these two points, shall waive their charter rights for the building of such a line in favor of Messrs. Foley, Welch & Stewart. In return for this the latter firm agree that should they receive a proposal involving the acquisition of a majority of the stock of the Pacific Great Eastern, they will serve notice on the G.T.P. Branch Lines Company, which shall have sixty days in which to acquire control of the line.

It is further agreed that all traffic, passenger or freight, mail or express, originating on the Pacific Great Eastern, the routing of which is under the control of the company, shall be routed over the G.T.P. All traffic originating on the Grand Trunk Pacific and destined for Vancouver or points on the line of the P.G.E.R., shall be routed over that line by the G.T.P. The Canadian Express and Grand Trunk Pacific Telegraph Companies have to have the right to do business on the lines of the P.G.E.R., but the latter can, if it desires, engage in telegraph and express business on its own account. In such event the Grand Trunk Pacific Telegraph Co. and the Canadian Express Co. shall have the sole right to interconnect business. The P.G.E.R. is to use the terminals of the G.T.P. at Fort George, and this agreement is to continue for a period of 20 years.

TERRIBLE RESULT OF BLOOD POISON

After Three Operations: Zam-Buk was Tried and Proved Successful.

If people would only use Zam-Buk for chronic sores, blood-poison, etc., before permitting an operation, scores of limbs would be saved.

Mr. Robt. Patterson of North Pelham, N. S., writes: "My daughter, Annie, had blood-poison in her finger. The doctor operated twice on the finger, but did not obtain the desired result, and the third operation was considered necessary."

"Three doctors were present at this operation, but after he had been performed the wound did not heal. Try as we would we could not get anything to close the wound."

"We at last tried Zam-Buk, and it was really wonderful to watch how this balm healed the wound. Each day there was a marked improvement. First the wound in the palm of the hand closed, and then the finger which had been bad so long began to heal. The diseased flesh seemed to rise out of the wound and then drop off, and new healthy flesh formed from below, pushing off the diseased tissue. In a short time the wound was completely healed. Had we applied Zam-Buk at first we might have saved the finger."

"We had another proof of Zam-Buk's power in the case of my son. When two years old he had his hand badly mangled. One finger had to be amputated and it left a running sore for some months. This wound, also, was finally healed by Zam-Buk."

For chronic sores, blood-poison, ulcers, abscesses, scalds, burns, eruptions, inflamed patches, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases Zam-Buk is without equal. 50c. box all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Have you tried Zam-Buk soap? 25c. tablet.

The first baseball game of the season was played at the school grounds on Saturday between the High School and the Bankers. The Bankers had had no practice together and their infield was rather weak, so the School had no trouble in running up a big score. The School led right from the start, the final score being 25-9. Rev. Pearson umpired.

Madame Isabel Quigg, who has just come to town and intends taking vocal music pupils, was the recipient of a very flattering tribute on the eve of her departure from Olds. The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a social afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Quigg. Mrs. Brown, and to the great surprise of Madame Quigg, Mrs. Brown in a very neat speech expressed the great regret of the ladies of the church at her departure, asking her at the same time to accept a very handsome rocking chair with the best wishes of the ladies for her success in her new home in Red Deer. Madame Quigg, to whom the presentation came as a great surprise, suitably replied, stating that she could never forget the great kindness she had always met from everyone in Olds, and no matter what success she might meet with in her new home she could never forget her first Canadian friends.

A cordial invitation extended to all to attend the supper at the Methodist Church on Monday evening next. Admission 50 cents. Musical programme after supper.

J. W. Bengough, cartoonist, gave one of his entertainments in the Lyric Monday evening. There was a fair audience in attendance. The local sketches were of Capt. Cottingham and DeWarden. Babcock, Paddy Nolan was also sketched true to life.

T. M. Wright has resigned from the Dominion Lands Office staff and, with F. G. Dimmock, will open out a real estate and agency office south of the city. Murphy & Co., store. Both gentlemen are well and favorably known from their railway and office services, and will undoubtedly make a success of their business.

President W. J. Botterill, of the Red Deer Board of Trade, has resigned his position on the Board. This step was necessary owing to press of business. Mr. Botterill was elected during his absence and on his return said he would hold the office unless business he had been expecting would prevent him doing so. The business developed, and he has resigned. It is to be regretted that the services of so shrewd and capable a citizen on M. Botterill could not be retained as it makes a good president, and his resignation is received with regret.

Laurentia Milk Co.

T. B. Miller, of the Laurentia Milk Co., who has been in the east purchasing machinery and attending to other business for the company, returned to Red Deer on Friday last. He says the company intend pushing their enterprise as speedily as possible, and there is now on the way two cars of machinery for the factory which will be built here.

Fine Cement Bridge

The Town Commissioners have decided to put in the finest cement bridge in Alberta on Gaetz Avenue South over Waskaseo Creek. Seymour & Dave have presented plans which, we understand, have been accepted. It will have a centre viaduct for two street railway tracks, a roadway each side of the tracks, and then room for two six foot walks. The bridge is expected to cost from five to six thousand dollars.

Council Buy Nuisance Ground

(From the Advocate)
The south-west quarter of section 29-28-27, W. 4, was bid in by the Town of Red Deer on Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the auction price of $20 an acre. Capt. Cottingham, Dominion Lands Agent, conducted the sale, and no other bids were made except that of the Town Commissioners.

The Commissioners and Council had been industriously searching for an available nuisance ground, no easy thing to get when subdivisions are active. To accommodate the citizens the Mayor had generously placed some property of his at the disposal of the Town for the dumping of refuse in the meantime. The Commissioners finally decided that it would be a good thing to have a try for the quarter section of school land nearest town on section 20, and first took the matter up with the late Government. The Department of Interior finally consented to offer the land for public sale. Though it is somewhat broken, and not quite so eligible for subdivisionary property as some other land, it was an attractive buy if it could be got reasonably, and it is greatly to the credit of the Town that it was.

The Town wanted the property to have them withdraw from the competition, and the Commissioners consequently had clear sailing. The adjoining quarter was sold for $100 an acre a few days ago.

The Town believes the half mile area will prevent the proposed nuisance ground from becoming an offence to the neighborhood. It is easily accessible, being one mile north and half a mile west of the Alberta Pacific Elevator Co.'s mill, and in its use has big advantage over all other properties considered so far.

Sylvan Lake

(Crowded out last week)
The C.N.R. and C.P.R. we understand will soon be running trains by the end of July.

The boats are all being painted, and the Annie is the scene of great commotion, as she is being remodelled and painted by her owners.

What is badly needed for boats landing is a good pier, one that will not wash away.

J. Henriksen tells us that some one set fire to the brush on his lake front, as he is a good pier, one that will not wash away.

The school site is cleared and tenders in and building will commence in a few days.

T. Wheeler is going to open up a first class livery barn.

C. E. Brooks is very busy painting E. Ross's new cottages. Anyone wanting a first class job done will do well to see him.

N. E. Bershons sold two lots up past his store this week.

The geese and ducks are going north over the lake now.

C. LeSautier has put in a complete stock of harness and is prepared to do all kinds of repairing in first class style.

Eckville Notes

W. Miller, C.N.R. bookkeeper, at the Rocky Mountain House, was through here last week on his way to Goose Lake.

The sale at Bernard Bros' farm was a success in every way. The good prices are chiefly due to the highly respected auctioneer, G. N. Welsh.

Frank Gordon paid a friendly visit here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bernard left for Vancouver Thursday.
